(Soulless)

Text : Kirsten

Here, where the snow falls softly, man rests in peace

A quiet sleep that last for all eternity

Here, where snow lands softly, children's cries and fears are lulled

Let thoughts sink into the deep without an end

Drench my faith with cataclysm; deny my soul in a make belief game

Promise gold and prosperity, holy life everlasting, deaden your fear

because dust you shall be

Soulless am I, giving my life to sins and doubt

Soulless am I, feeling alive without regret, without tarry

Soulless am I being free from chains that are forged

Soulless I'll stand against those who hand out salvation and repent

Here where thoughts come to life, all meaning that they have dies

Because value are measured only in what we can give

If the look back on , the course of the years they'll understand

That the key they've bled and fought for is ours

Drench my faith with cataclysm; deny my soul in a make belief game

Promise gold and prosperity, holy life everlasting, deaden your fear

because dust you shall be

Soulless am I, giving my life to sins and doubt

Soulless am I, feeling alive without regret, without tarry

Soulless am I being free from chains that are forged

Soulless I'll stand against those who hand out salvation and repent

Now you will see what you've been wasting your life for

A heaven and a hell that no one will ever reach
